The New Hampshire Platform

Following are the resolutions of the New Hampshire Republican Convention which refer to national affairs and on which such a signal victory has been won

Resolved That the success of the present national administration in reducing the public debt diminishing and equalizing taxation administering every branch of public affairs with economy and efficiency forming and improving the civil service enforcing the laws without fear or favor protecting the nation s wards with paternal care against the cruel avarice of speculation and fraud and maintaining friendly relations with foreign powers has been such as to command the approbation of the great majority of the American people and justly entitle it to the confidence and commendation of every true Republican

Resolved That President Grant ... wisdom prudence skill ... and abundant success with which he has administered the affairs of the nation as its Executive head has fully justified the confidence reposed in his integrity and ability as a statesman of the Republican party and richly merits his renomination and re-election at their hands and we confidently propose him as the Republican standard bearer in the Presidential campaign of 1872

From the Statesman of Thursday Mr J R Ballard, an expert at detecting counterfeit money was here yesterday showing his skill and disposing of a Detector issued by authority of the Treasury Department at Washington He had specimens of counterfeit $10 $20 $50 and $100 bills which have passed in our State by successive operators, no doubt connected Some are dangerous bills and deceive the banks The field is not so inviting here for counterfeiting purposes as elsewhere, but the business is carried on to some extent

THE TERRITORIES.

William McAllister has been held to answer at Walla Walla on the charge of having murdered Charles N. Ward.

The prisoners in the Idaho Penitentiary heard last fall that the prisoners in the Washington Territory Prison were supplied with tobacco, and became indignant at their keepers and announced that they would not remain in the place unless they were furnished with a supply of weed Accordingly, a few days ago, the convicts put their threat into execution and left.

On the 10th February William Riley Smith, a youth of seventeen started from his residence in Whitman county to go to another place twenty four miles distant He was accompanied by a dog which after three days absence, returned Parties had been searching for him ever since but at last accounts without avail It is feared that he strayed from his course and perished

The Walla Walla Statesman learns from Yakima that the winter just passed was marked with some degree of severity yet the loss of cattle falls far short of expectations The writer has made it his business to learn the loss in the different parts of the valley, and he says the total will not exceed 150 head To this is to be added an estimated loss of 150 head of Indian horses The heavy snow promises an abundant grass crop, and in this way the settlers expect to offset the losses they sustained in the course of the winter

From the Walla Walla Statesman Mr Byrnes, a stock raiser living on Mud Creek, informs us that within a brief period he has lost twelve head of valuable cows and some eighteen or twenty head of steers These cattle were driven up early in the season, and having had an abundance of both feed and water, their death is not easily accounted for Mr B informed us that he opened several of the cows and uniformly found the kidneys black and unhealthy, but whether the diseased kidneys were the cause of death he is unable to determine His total loss is not less than $1 000 Rather severe on a hard working settler

Democratic Stealings

[From the Statesman]

Our Democratic neighbors have a deal to say about the delinquencies of the late Republican State officers. Mr Cooke s offences are so indefinite they cannot properly describe them, so they denounce him on general principles which looks queerly along side of the two emphatic endorsements paid him by successive Democratic Legislatures They charge the ex-Treasurer with "loaning" money out of the State funds, and prove that he had deposits in the hands of responsible bankers, but every man knows a deposit is not a loan but a means of security All the charges against Major Berry are weak and some of them are silly. The people generally feel disappointed at finding the most heinous fault committed at the State Prison was the assertion ill supported that the Warden carried off from the stores of the prison a paper of soda, hidden under his coat tails The Governor is accused of some trifling things by a drunken janitor who was personally offended at him and the only actual loss shown to have been suffered by the State was at the hands of the Secretary of State, whose conduct is undergoing judicial investigation at the present time and whose misdeeds stated at the utmost figure claimed can be made good to the State by his sureties

This hue and cry has the force and intention of the cry of "stop thief," which we read of in the fable It is meant to turn attention from the greater defalcations committed by the Democratic party The single steal of $75,000, out of the School Funds, as a bonus to the partisan friends in the canal and locks scheme, which is that much more than the People s Transportation Company would have done the work for, had the grant been made in its favor is a bigger swindle than all the acts they can possibly trump up against Republican officials in Oregon for all time past Yes, it is five times greater than all they can figure up, whether based on fact or the product of unscrupulous and exuberant invention.

Take the $75 000 above referred to the $30 000 which litigant organs are to rob the State of before two years can bring opportunity for repeal add to that $10 000 increase of salaries for State officers during the same two years figure up what is the unnecessary expense of the various commissions established which will reach $20 000 more add these all up even without any reference to the Swamp Land swindle, and you will see the sum of $130 000 cash which we can charge up as Democratic swindling in two years, from 1870 to 1872

ANCIENT CHIROGRAPHY —Some of the earliest methods of writing are singular evidences of the progress of civilization Bricks tiles, star shells stones ivory, bark and leaves of trees were used to write on and from the latter leaves of books are probably derived Copper and brass plates were early in use and a bill of feofment on copper was some years since discovered in India bearing date one hundred years B C Leather was also used as well as wooden tablets Then the papyrus came into vogue, and about the eighth century the papyrus was superseded by parchment Paper, however, is of great antiquity especially among the Chinese but the first paper mill in England was built in 1586 by a German, in Kent, Nevertheless, it was nearly a century and a half, namely in 1713 before Thomas Watkins a stationer brought paper making to anything like perfection. The first approach to a pen was the stylus, a kind of iron bodkin but the Romans forbade its use on account of its frequent and even fatal use in quarrels and then it was made of bone Subsequently reeds, pointed and split like pens in the present day were used

THE DIFFERENCE —The crime of being poor is well exemplified to day in New York City where a notorious murderer confined in the Tombs has his cell carpeted with a fine Brussels fabric he takes his ablutions in Florida bay water, writes his own bill of fare and is served daily with choice viands and delicious beverages A small boy who committed the crime of seeing the murder, and thus enabling the people to get evidence upon which the assassin may be hanged lies in a dismal dungeon in Leonard street, in the ... called House of Detention

The Ericsson Snow Plow

A letter from Salt Lake to the Sacramento Union contains this:

During the past week expectation was on tip toe relative to the anticipated doings of a snow plow of different construction to any in use on this continent It is an European invention, patented in this country by the inventor, who is now a resident of this city He is a Swede and entirely a self-made man Commencing life poor and illiterate in his native country, Ericsson, who was an indefatigable student, and a natural mechanic, progressed in knowledge, studied engineering and became a prominent civil engineer under the Swedish government To overcome the obstructions to railroad travel which the heavy and frequent winter snows of Scandinavia produced, he labored at the invention of a practicable snow plow, and succeeded in constructing and embodying the main principles of manual toil in digging and clearing away snow drifts His invention was tested and was a success, and has now been in use a number of years in Northern Europe It is so constructed that it cuts the snow on either side of the track, clears it from the rails, and by a very simple process if the snow is soft and not impacted, throws it clear of the track on either side Where it has settled and become hard the same cutting process is pursued and the plow ... of the drift, with its load, which it then throws off without the application of the laborer s shovel The inventor claims for it that it is capable of clearing off newly-fallen snow ten feet deep at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, with one ordinary engine The doubt here with regard to its availability was its strength, when brought in contact with the hard gravel mixed snow on the Union Pacific, and much satisfaction was expressed when a telegram was received from Superintendent Sickles, of the Union Pacific Railroad, requesting that it might be sent forward to the blockade But when the plow reached Ogden there was a hitch somewhere The train dispatcher at Wasatch did not like to risk ... an engine with it, said his division was clear, and did not require a snow plow, and finally after remaining at Ogden over a day, it was returned to Salt Lake, nobody being the wiser as to what it could do It is said that the Union Pacific people were willing it should go forward but were unwilling that the inventor should go with it, which, if true, is susceptible of a rather queer construction, as the man who produced the plow, and had frequently worked it in Europe was certainly the best fitted to direct its operation There is a very general desire to have it tried against some snow blockade, that its efficiency or inefficiency may be satisfactorily tested

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING. MARCH 15, 1872

REMOVED

The Office of The Daily and Weekly Oregonian is removed to the S. E. corner of Stark and Front streets.

A Reminder.

If there is anything whatever that may be considered settled it is the fact that the country will never return to the ideas which have for years animated the so-called Democratic party. The country has paid too much for its experience. It knows that those ideas have caused all the difficulties it has ever experienced. It has constantly present before it, in the shape of a prodigious national debt and the remembrances of a mighty war, the fruits of Democratic dogmas; and its purpose is never to tolerate in any shape those dogmas, or the party that owns them. This high resolve is reasserted on every proper occasion, just as it has been this week in New Hampshire. All the great array of States which were loyal to the Union will record a similar verdict, including even New York, since that State has been delivered from the rule of the Tammany Ring and Erie gang, which have for some years carried it in the name of Democracy.

It is not forgotten and never can be how unfaithful this party has been to its trusts. It allowed one-third of the States to assume a position of defiance to the national authority and made no effort to check them; it even encouraged them in their course, maintaining that it was resistance to tyranny and in accord with Democratic principles. It upheld the accursed system of human slavery, and preferred the disruption of the Union to the overthrow of the system. It opposed the prosecution of the war at every stage, and went even to the verge of giving aid and comfort to the common enemy. After the rebellion had been quelled, it made an attempt to restore to power in the Government those who had just been fighting to destroy it. The next endeavor was to repudiate the national debt, and the next to inaugurate a new rebellion in the South on the doctrines enunciated by Blair. None of these things have been forgotten. A party with such a record will never be placed in control of the Government.

Here are some of the reasons why this party always meets with defeat on national issues. It is well enough to remind its organs occasionally what the matter is, so that they can have an opportunity to profitably ponder them.

The Ship building Interest.

Various projects are proposed from time to time for the revival of American ship-building. Little should be expected from any of them. In every plan that is proposed it is assumed that one of the great needs is to admit ship-building materials duty free. But this concession would amount to little. It seems singular that the essential points of this subject are so little understood.

In discussing the problem of ship-building it is the fashion to leave out of consideration one of the chief reasons why England can build ships cheaper than we can. Most foreign ship-owners are content with a return of three to five per cent. on the money invested, while American owners are not satisfied with any such rates; and as they can invest their money at far greater profit, their present disposition to keep clear of ship property is not to be wondered at. As we have often remarked, American capital and American enterprise can do better in other directions. In developing the mighty resources of a continent which has just been opened by railways, there is a better and more profitable field.

For these reasons we have little faith in any plan for the present promotion of ship-building. If our people can do better than to build ships why should Congress be so disturbed about it? Why these repeated efforts to devise some means to stimulate a relatively unprofitable industry? When conditions so change as to make ship-building profitable, the industry will revive and grow itself.

More from the British Press.

There is little change in the tone of the British press on the American claims. Nearly all the journals persist in urging the Government to withdraw from the arbitration unless the United States withdraws these claims. The Times says:

We must give notice at once—if, indeed, notice has not been given already—to the arbitrators and to the American Government that we repudiate the construction which has been put upon the treaty in the American case, and that we must withdraw from the arbitration if this construction be insisted upon. But, this point rectified, we are ready to go on with the reference with perfect loyalty to the terms of the treaty. * * * If the American Government consent to reform their case, the arbitration may be happily concluded; if they insist on their interpretation of the convention, the arbitration cannot proceed.

The Spectator thinks nothing can be graver than the present situation of the arbitration question, and declares that:

England cannot permit the claims commonly called "indirect," to be even submitted to the Board of Arbitrators. We must not go into the arbitration trusting to any preconceived notion of our own as to what the good sense and moderation of the court of arbitrators will do for us. We do not doubt at all that the court of arbitrators would put aside as simply extravagant at least nine-tenths of the American claims, but we have no right whatever to trust to this.

The Saturday Review does not hold the people of the United States responsible for what it terms the "hostile proceeding" of their Government, but thinks there is too much reason to fear that they will support its policy. It adds:

It is satisfactory to observe that, for the first time in eleven years, all parties in England are absolutely of one mind on the merits of a controversy with America. The most enthusiastic supporters of the cause of the North during the civil war, the most devoted admirers of Republican institutions, concur in the determination to resist pretensions which can only have been advanced for the purposes of injury or insult.

The Daily News bitterly attacks Lord Granville for allowing the English Commissioners to sign a treaty which authorizes the presentation of claims that "cannot for a moment be allowed by Her Majesty's Government," and observes:

Only one course is possible. The tribunal at Geneva was appointed not to interpret the treaty, but to adjudicate upon claims supposed to be distinctly indicated in it. Dispute having arisen as to the meaning of the agreement, its scope and intention must be settled by further negotiation between the contracting parties before the arbitration under it is possible.

The News also says that the situation in which England finds herself placed, makes it pertinent to consider whether the constitutional tradition which reserves the treaty-making power in the English political system exclusively to the Sovereign, might not wisely be revised.

The Standard thinks the weak point in the case of Great Britain was the unfortunate omission of her Commissioners to disown a claim which it was an insult to her even to mention, and declares the English Government ought at once to say to that of the United States:

You have misunderstood our intentions; your interpretation of our language is different from our own. We thought we had only assented to refer some express claims to the arbitrators at Geneva. If our assent is capable of wider construction we must at once withdraw it.

Somewhat singularly, the Morning Post, Palmerston's old organ, which has never pretended to disguise its hostility to the United States, is the only daily paper which argues against the destruction of the treaty in case the United States should refuse to modify its claims. It says:

We have no right to complain of the construction which the American Government seeks to put on the treaty. The proper course for Her Majesty's Government to take is to prepare in due course a reply to the case of the American Government, leaving to the latter the opportunity, to which it is undoubtedly entitled in equity, to reply after the lapse of two months. We have no right to call upon the tribunal to reject peremptorily, on motion, any claims, however preposterous, which may be put forward by the American Government. The construction of the treaty and of everything connected with it has been referred by us as by the government of the United States to a special tribunal, and we, like our opponents, must be content to leave everything unreservedly in its hands.

The Pall-Mall Gazette (weekly), another old enemy, also considers our claim for indirect damages to be fairly included within the terms of the treaty—this, probably, not because it dislikes America less, but the British ministry more; while our quondam friend, the Telegraph, which at first treated the general alarm as unfounded, now characterizes our demands as astounding and obviously inadmissible. Referring to the report that these claims were inserted at the suggestion of Caleb Cushing, then on the eve of departure for Europe, it says:

The audacious constructor of the claim is the likeliest man to undo it, without humbling the nation which has left the matter so much in his hands, and which will think little, if at all, the worse of him for having made a bid so inordinately high. And in any case it is matter for satisfaction to know that ere many days are past our representatives in this business of the arbitration will be able to treat face to face with the American politician who knows better than any other man how far the United States claims are really valid—and beyond what point it would be fatal to stretch them.

The Economist, after remarking that if the present attempt to restore harmony between the two countries should fail, no other effort will be likely to succeed for many years, still considers that the duty of England is plain, remarking:

We must at once give notice to the American Government that we must have the treaty carried out in the sense in which we interpreted it, and in which by their silence they permitted us to think that they also interpreted it. If they should say that they, from the beginning, understood the matter differently, the treaty is at an end.

The Cosmopolitan, edited by a self-expatriated American, blusteringly declares that it "has always scouted these utterly childish and most preposterous Alabama claims, and it is only surprised that men claiming to be statesmen on either side of the Atlantic will waste time in discussing them."

Our Democratic contemporaries are evidently chagrined and disappointed over the result of the New Hampshire election. The Herald simply doesn't "believe the story," and feels "confident that subsequent dispatches will show that the Democrats have carried the State by a handsome majority." For "subsequent dispatches" we refer to the Herald of to-day. The East Portland organ thinks that the "Radicals" must have made great exertions, and consoles itself with the reflection that if they hadn't they couldn't have carried the State. Which is cold consolation.

It seems that the noted James H. Newby has once more come to grief. The Alta called him a "shyster;" he sued for $50,000 damages; the Alta stood on its defense and proved him a "shyster" by the testimony of experts. It did not even need to send to Yamhill for testimony.

It is thought by the East Portland Era that Senator Kelly will "prove himself more efficient" after a while. When he does, we shall hasten to let the people of Oregon know it.

Asking Questions—A Story for Most People.

[From the Manufacturer and Builder.]

I promised to give some examples of the manner in which old farmer Smith trained his son John in the art of asking questions. John was naturally inquisitive, like most boys, and, like them also, in the usual belief of children that their parents know everything. Now, strange to say, one of the old gentleman's first steps in teaching his son consisted in refusing to answer many of his questions.

For instance, one day John said:

"Father, what makes wood swim on the water?"

"How should I know?" said his father.

"Why, I suppose you have found out."

"Well, then, you must find out."

This problem cost John a good deal of perplexity. He did not see how to go to work. His father watched him silently for several days before offering to help him; but one evening, after work, as John sat on the door-step with a pail of water in front of him, in which he had put several chips of different forms and sizes, farmer Smith said:

"Well, my boy, how do you get along?"

"I have found out one thing," said John, "it is not the shape nor the size. These little chips swim just as well as the big ones."

"Perhaps it is in the color," replied his father, "try red cedar."

So John got a piece of cedar, and was disgusted to find it floating as well as the rest.

"You mustn't feel so," said his father, "a fact is a fact; and it is just as well to know that a thing is not true as to prove a thing to be true. Besides, a very good way to find the cause why anything takes place is to find the circumstances under which it will not take place; and that you can only do by trying."

"Oh! I can find plenty of things that will not swim," said John; "stones, and nails and bullets." But his father made no further remark and went on thinking.

At last he came to the conclusion that neither color, nor shape had anything to do with it, but that heavy things would sink and light ones would swim. When he told this all the reply he got was, "Which is heaviest, a ship or a bullet?"

This puzzled him exceedingly, and he had to go back and admit that size had something to do with the matter, after all. Finally he said: "When I talk about heavy things I don't mean things that are heavy because they are large, but things that are heavy any-how."

"I guess you must mean what they call specific gravity," said his father. "Let us say, then, that wood floats on account of its small specific gravity. It is a comfort to be sure of a thing, isn't it. Now take this piece of wood and put it on the water, and you will be able to give a scientific explanation. A scientific explanation is a great thing." With that old Smith chuckled a little to himself and went to milk the cows.

John felt quite proud at first with his new phrase, but he was a little uneasy besides; for he suspected that he was, after all, not quite master of the subject, and the chuckle troubled him. However, he got the pail of water and called his mother to hear his explanation. Mrs. Smith was a very good auditor. She thought John was very smart, and when he displayed any newly-acquired knowledge she usually raised her hands and said, "Do tell!"

So John made ready his apparatus, and was just beginning, "You see, mother, it's all specific gravity; now this chip"—when the chip suddenly went to the bottom of the pail. Such a stunning contradiction would have embarrassed any lecturer, and it quite took the breath of John. "Mother," said he, trying to make the best of it, "the exhibition is postponed."

One of the farm hands coming by took up the chip and said it was water-logged, and when John asked him what that meant, he said it meant "wet inside." By this time John had got very much interested in the subject and resolved to find out as much as he could without going to his father for help. He noticed that an empty dipper or tin cup would float, though a single piece of tin sank at once, and the cup itself, if filled with water, went to the bottom promptly. "That cup is water-logged," said he to himself; and his father coming in just then, remarked mysteriously, "The specific gravity of a dipper and the specific gravity of tin are two different things."

But I cannot afford to describe all the steps of John's progress in studying this subject. It is easy from what I have told to see that his father's system was to make him ask questions of things, rather than men—to train him in observation as well as reflection. He made him keep a record of all his investigations; and the history of this particular matter was inscribed in a straggling school-boy hand in John's journal as follows:

WHY DOES WOOD SWIM?

June 1.—Chips will always swim in water. Round chips will swim like square ones, and big ones like little ones.

June 2.—Red cedar is just the same.

June 3.—Bullets will not swim, nor anything else that is too heavy.

June 4.—Heavy things will swim if they are only heavy because they are big, and would not be heavy if they were small. This is specific gravity.

June 4, P.M.—Water-logged chips will sink. I do not know what specific gravity is.

June 6.—A water-logged chip is like a dipper full of water. Specific gravity must be the weight of anything in proportion to its size.

June 7.—Wood is heavier than it looks; but when it is not water-logged, it is full of air like an empty dipper; and when it gets full of water, it is too heavy to swim.

June 10.—I have found a piece of mahogany that will not swim.

June 30.—Table of things that will and will not swim.—A piece of each was taken, three inches long, three inches wide, and an inch and a half high:

Butter weighs 7½ ounces, and will swim.
Clay weighs 16 ounces, and will not swim.
Tin weighs 59 ounces, and will not swim.
Dry hard wood weighs 5 to 6 ounces, and will swim.
Water-logged hard wood weighs 8 to 9 ounces, and will not swim.
Dry pine weighs 3¾ ounces, and will swim.
Water-logged pine weighs 7 ounces, and will swim.
Brick weighs 11 ounces, and will not swim.
If anything three inches long, three inches wide and an inch and a half high weighs more than eight ounces, it will not swim.

July 4.—Eight ounces is just the weight of water—that is, of as much water as will fill a square pan of the size above mentioned. Therefore, everything will swim that has less specific gravity than water, and sink if it has more. But I do not understand why some things swim on the top of the water, and others sink half way into it.

You see by this that John made good progress in the art of asking questions of nature.

PACIFIC COAST DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—The steamer Idaho will sail for Portland at 11 A. M. on Friday, carrying freight only, including coal oil, gunpowder, etc. The next regular steamer for Portland will be the Oriflamme, to sail on Tuesday.

Arrived this evening, overland—P. C. Dunleary, British Columbia; C. S. Froholmer, Port Townsend.

Owing to the glut in silver circulation here, the San Francisco Branch Mint refuses to receive silver bullion for coinage for the present.

Weather clear and cold; wind fresh from the northwest.

The gamblers whose places were closed by the police have nearly all returned to the business in new localities.

The wool product in the State for 1871 foots up 24,276,253 pounds—an increase of 4,815,688 pounds over the previous year. The clip this year, it is believed, will be larger than last, and with increased price will bring at least 30 per cent. more money to the State.

Patrick Kelley was the name of the painter killed by a fall on Mason street to-day.

The steamer Pioneer, which sunk in the Straits of Carquinez yesterday, was raised and towed to the city this evening. All her cargo, except a few sacks of potatoes, was lost. Two of her crew, names not given, were drowned when the steamer sunk.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—The steamer Olympia, built for an opposition steamer for Puget Sound, sailed for Guaymas to-day.

The postponed race at the Agricultural Park was won to-day by the mare—Jeff. having cut his foot badly and being distanced. Time—2:48½. The trotting race, one mile and repeat, between Gibbons' black horse and Lady St. Clair, was won by the mare in two straight heats. Time not worth mentioning—over three minutes any way. The running race between St. Clair to saddle and Susie Hill to harness was won by Susie Hill in 2:17 and 2:11.

The boy Frank Henley, son of Colonel Henley, who fell from a pigeon house on Prospect Place this evening, is dead. Colonel Henley's oldest and only other son died about a month ago, and this accident renders him childless.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—The surveyors of the Southern Pacific Railroad, with Engineer Phelps, are en route to Fort Yuma. They are now making a survey of San Gorgonia Pass.

A fire occurred at San Bernardino last night at 12 o'clock, which destroyed Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office.

SAN DIEGO, March 14.—Butler lead at Indian City is being rapidly developed. The last crushing gave $53 to the ton, and there is said to be plenty of the same character of rock in sight.

Stock all looking well. Stock men will do well this season.

No rain yet.

NEVADA.

EUREKA, March 14.—There have been no cases of small pox for twenty-four days. Physicians concur in the opinion that the disease has wholly disappeared.

The recent strike in Eureka Condensed has inspired capitalists with confidence in the permanency of the district.

Shipping Intelligence.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—Sailed—Str. Coquille, Coos Bay; bark Clara B. Sutil.

Arrived—Ship Isaac Jeans, Seabock; bark Tidal Wave, bktn W. H. Gawley, ship Coquimbo, Port Madison; brig Arago schrs W. S. Phelps, John Hunter and Parallel, Coos Bay; ship John Jay, Port Blakely.

A New Jersey paper, noticing a statement that that State is virtually owned by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, remarks: "If we are owned by that corporation we have the proud satisfaction, at least, of being owned by the biggest monopoly in the country! That is a grain of comfort."

GEO. P. NEWELL,
Late of San Jose, Cal.,
Professor of the Organ, Pianoforte, Harmony, Thorough-Bass and Singing.
Having concluded to remain in Portland he is now prepared to resume the teaching of Music. Having made Music a special study for so many years he can offer pupils a superior advantage. The principles of Harmony and Thorough-Bass, which is difficult for many to understand, are made plain and simple. Singing taught on the Italian principle. Those wishing my services are requested to leave their names and address at Gray's Music Store. fe29dtf

Still Another Remarkable Cure!
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30, 1871.
DR. A. M. LOBYEA & Co.—For two years I was afflicted with Rheumatism, and tried all the known remedies, but experienced nothing more than a temporary relief, the disease always returning. Some months since I concluded to take your Unk Weed Remedy, and the result was a Speedy and Permanent Cure, the Rheumatism being entirely eradicated from the system. The "UNK" is also a Tonic of the very highest order. It increases the appetite, and invigorates the body. I cheerfully bear testimony to its good effect upon me, and feel sure that it will do all you claim for it.
Very truly yours,
J. W. TRIPP,
(Of McGraw & Tripp, Attorneys-at-Law),
408 California street.

" " Course to admit one..........$2 00.
" " " " Lady and Gentleman. 3 00.
For sale at all the Book and Drug Stores in town.

THE THIRD LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by REV. THOS. CONDON, on Tuesday Evening, March 19th, 1872,
at 7½ o'clock.
SUBJECT—"The relations of our Christian Theology to Natural Science."
Exactly how MR. CONDON will treat this subject we are not informed. Two volumes have been open before him—from one as a Christian minister he has preached the Gospel, from the other he has exhibited some of the wonders of Creation. He delights to read both, and neither in the pulpit or in the lecture room does he array the teachings of one against the other. The God of Nature is the God of the Bible. He who creates by His power, redeems by His grace. There is no conflict between Natural Science and Christian Doctrine, but rather an intimate relation binding them together at the feet of the Master. To the thoughtful mind the theme is deeply interesting. It would be an unusual occurrence if Mr. Condon should not be greeted with a large audience. mh14dtd

The Office of The Daily and Weekly Oregonian is removed to the N E corner of Stark and Front streets

A Good Suggestion — The Era of East Portland contains the following suggestions, which we think will be heartily endorsed by all who have traveled the road as not only a good and timely suggestion but one that should be acted upon The road leading to the Cemetery is in a very bad condition and as a consequence very tedious and disagreeable if not dangerous to travel over When we consider for a moment that all funerals, whether from the east side or the west side have to pass over it, we cannot but see that it would be proper if a plank road was constructed following the line of the present route A road of this kind nine feet in width could not cost very much and while it would prove much better to those who attend funerals on foot it would also be a saving in the way of the present cost for breakage of carriages, buggies etc The way things are now a funeral never goes to the Cemetery without some accident of this kind happening and think of wading through the mud three or four inches in depth! It is a shame to the energy and public spirit of our citizens, and should not be allowed to continue so We have spoken to several on the subject, and all admit the building of a plank road would be a benefit and some have expressed themselves willing to contribute towards paying for its construction Messrs Knott & Son offer to give one hundred dollars, and several others say they will also give other sums We would suggest that subscriptions be taken up for this purpose on both sides of the river Once traveling over the road will convince any one such action, or some other leading to the same result is positively necessary

Important to Publishers — Under this head, in Wednesday's issue, we published a decision of Judge Shat [illegible], but omitted a very important item in connection with a case recently tried at [illegible], Ohio, by the same Judge The trial was for a violation of Section 41 of the Act of [illegible] 3, 1863, which reads as follows

The Postmaster General may require an affidavit, in form to be prescribed by general regulation, to be taken by any publisher, or any clerk, agent, or servant of such publisher of any paper or periodical, which by the terms of this act may be sent to regular subscribers without prepayment of postage at the mailing office, to the effect that neither he, nor any other proprietor clerk agent, or employee within his knowledge, has sent, or caused or permitted to be sent through the mails, without the pre-payment by postage stamps, any copy of such paper or periodical [naming it] except the same were sent to bona fide and regular subscribers thereto, and if it be ascertained that such papers or periodicals have been thus unlawfully sent, with the knowledge or consent of such proprietor, or of the agent or clerk in charge of that business, or if such affidavit, when required by the Postmaster General, or by a special agent of the Postoffice Department, shall be refused, the person guilty of such offence, or refusing such oath, shall be liable to a fine of fifty dollars in each case, to be recovered by suit before any court of competent jurisdiction, etc

The defendant was found guilty and held liable to the penalty of $50 and costs See Postoffice Gazette of February, 1872, published at Washington, D C

Narrow Escape from Drowning — Just at twilight, Wednesday evening, a little boy aged about ten years, son of a widow woman, Mrs [illegible], fell into a pond of water near the residence of Judge Lewis, on Third street, and but for the timely arrival of ex Governor Daniels would have been drowned As it was Mr Daniels, who jumped into the pond, caught the child as he was about to sink the third time, and brought him out in an insensible condition and apparently dead. Active restorative measures were at once [illegible], a physician (Dr Chapman) sent for, and about 10 o clock in the evening the boy revived. He had been playing on a float of boards [illegible] the pond only a street puddle, and being careless he fell in The pond is really as dangerous as the river for children to play on or at, as it is not less than ten or fifteen feet deep in places

The North Pacific Railway — That the contractors, and those having in charge the management of the North Pacific Railroad on this end, are in earnest in having the road in running order from the Columbia river to the Puget Sound by May [illegible] of this year is witnessed by the number of men now at work and the number to be employed. They have now at work about seven [illegible] and, on the steamship Ajax, due to [illegible] there are two hundred Chinamen en route for Olympia to engage to work on that end They are to be followed by eighteen hundred more. The [illegible] pany dispatched from New York one ship, [illegible] with railway material, in the month of [illegible] which was followed by another in [illegible] with at last advices, so we are informed, [illegible] on the berth.

Shipping Intelligence — The bark Almatia was passed at Cathlamet by the Dixie Thompson. The Okanogan went down to tow her up and she may be [illegible] to arrive to day

The bark Caldstream is receiving one hundred tons of wheat as ballast before discharging the [illegible] of her merchandise.

The steamship Ajax, from San Francisco, is due to-night She brings a large cargo of assorted merchandise, and is also supposed to bring up a large mail

W., F. & Co's Agency — We are pleased to [illegible] that affairs at the office of the company, in this city, is in such excellent standing with the [illegible] Mr. W. A. Atlee is agent, S L Pope, [illegible] and forwarding clerk, Geo. W Minor, [illegible] forwarding clerk, Frank Molthrop, city [illegible], Ed Hall, book keeper Chas Mead, letter clerk, and Wm Warren and Ralph Welch [illegible] gers. All of whom are prompt in dispatching business

Travel to East of the Cascades — The number of families en route for east of the Cascades is larger at this season of the year than any previous year The number of families taken up each day by the boats average four. The Emma Hayward took up to-day five families, 175 head of sheep, 200 head of cattle and 50 head of horses We are pleased to note this continued evidence of the rapid settling up of that section.

The Carrie — This steamer, which has been lying at Oregon City for a long time brought down from that point yesterday 170 head of sheep to the O S N Co's dock, from whence they will be taken east of the mountains We understand that more sheep and cattle will be brought down by this steamer to be sent in the same direction

St. Patrick's Day — The Committee of Arrangements announce in another column the programme for the celebration next Monday. The exercises of the day promise to be interesting.

Lecture. — Rev P J Gibney's lecture last evening at the cathedral church was largely attended During the evening Mr Nesfield of the church choir rendered some excellent music

Calico Ball — The First Ladies Hebrew Benevolent Society give a grand Calico Ball at Philharmonic Hall on the evening of the 25th An excellent time is promised

Skating Rink — The fun continues at the [illegible] three nights in the week and on Saturday afternoon. The Skating Club number over fifty members

Opening Ball — The Willamette Hose Co No 1 hold the opening ball at the new Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening April 3d

AMUSEMENTS.

Oro Fino Theater — Griffith Gaunt the dramatization from Chas Reade's novel of that name, was presented last evening for the first time to a good house We did not have time to witness the entire play but what little we were enabled to see assured us that the piece would enjoy a run. The acting of Mr. Waldron was as usual good as was also that of Mrs Waldron Mr Fulford assumed a character foreign to any thing we have yet seen him enact and did it well Miss Annie Pixley's 'Mercy Vint' was quiet and natural. Barry was funny as ever and the rest of the company were up in parts allotted to them New scenery has been added to make the piece more attractive and the Fair Scene was a true picture. The play will be repeated this evening

SCRAPS OF HISTORY

To the Editor of the Oregonian

Sir In an article in yesterday's Oregonian M W H Gray seems desirous to convey the impression that I was editor of the Oregon Spectator in 1849 Such is not the fact The first number of that paper bears date of February 5, 1846, and it was issued semi monthly thereafter until disposed of to other owners in the summer of 1849, when it passed into the hands of Robert Moore, Esq as proprietor, with Rev Wilson Blaine as editor Mr Gray in his "History of Oregon" in reference to this journal, states that W G T'Vault was the first editor H A G Lee the second and G L Curry the third On page [illegible] he says "On the eighteenth number G L Curry, Esq, took charge to the twenty sixth number, which completed the first volume of the paper He continued his editorial position until the twenty fourth number, of the second volume * * * * * Judge A L Walt succeeded Mr Curry in the editorial department of the paper" I am inclined to the impression that this statement is correct as my services as editor of the Spectator commenced with the issue dated October 1 1846 and terminated in January 1848 I wrote no editorials for that paper after that period, I commenced the publication of the Oregon Free Press the first week in April, 1848 which was issued weekly thereafter during that year Mr Gray ought to be sufficient authority against Mr Gray that I wrote no editorials for the Spectator in 1849 or for or against the "Mint I was a member of the Legislature which passed that measure was in favor of it and voted for it, Medoram Crawford, Esq, and Col W H Martin entered their protest on the journal of the House against the passage of the act

Mr Gray is hardly accurate when he says "None of them have to my knowledge, ever complained or in any way been rewarded with an office except as Gov Curry" Will he permit me to remind him that Sam'l R Thurston was our first Delegate to Congress, W H Rector, Superintendent of Indian Affairs Dr Ralph Wilcox Register of the Land Office at Oregon City A F Hedges, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, Medoram Crawford, Collector of Internal Revenue W H Martin, Receiver of Public Moneys at the Land Office at Roseburg?

Will the editor of the Oregonian do me the favor to add to the foregoing the subjoined extract from my recent lecture, in reference to the Beaver coinage, so called?

The first coinage of gold on this coast took place at Oregon City in the spring of 1849. Our people returning from the gold mines in California could get but $11 per ounce for their gold dust in trade, at any of the mercantile establishments in the country It was worth from $16 to $18 per ounce To remedy this the Legislature, in the winter of 1848 and 1849 passed an act authorizing the "assaying, melting and coining of gold, but the advent of the new order of things under the Federal Government, precluded the carrying out of the law Private enterprise, however, within a short time after, issued what has since been called the "beaver coin"—being a gold coinage of $5 and $10 pieces, with the impression of the beaver on one side, over which appeared the initial letters of the names of the company—Kilborn, Magruder, Taylor, Abernethy, Wilson, Rector, Campbell, Smith—underneath, "O T, 1849" On the reverse was "Oregon Exchange Company, 130 grains native gold, 5 D" The only alteration on the faces of the $10 pieces was "10 pdwts 20 grains, Ten D" The dies for their coinage were made by Hamilton Campbell since dead, the press and rolling mills were made by W H Rector, since removed to California. The intrinsic worth of these gold pieces was some eight per cent more than their representative value, and therefore they were readily interchanged and soon passed from general circulation

Country Dealers would do well to call and examine the stock [illegible] customers, and in fact the public in general [illegible] for such bargains that no one need feel displeased to leave without purchasing. Nothing more need be said Try the new firm [illegible] never regret so doing.

The Umatilla House at The Dalles is now completed and furnished in every respect The office is the most cheerful and pleasant in the State and the dining hall is unequaled The rooms are all newly furnished The house has twelve suites of rooms with stoves in them for families The new house stands much higher than the old one The ceilings are four feet higher which adds greatly to the cheerfulness of the rooms The table is kept in a style to correspond fully with the appointments

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

We regret to learn that Dr P Prettyman an old resident of this county is lying quite ill at his residence near East Portland

Word from Salem indicates that the meeting, which was progressing with so much interest last week has been continued with prospects of further success

Rev C C Stratton has visited Boston New York, Philadelphia Baltimore and Washington among other places, laboring in behalf of the Willamette University

Rev [illegible] writes from Whatcom W T March [illegible] everything is quiet here in worldly matters The good work is going on at Semiahmoo I have received five into that class since I last wrote

Rev H K Hines, presiding elder of Walla Walla District, having held a quarterly meeting at the Dalles on Sabbath last, made a brief visit to this city Bro Hines is collecting materials for the life of Rev Jason Lee, which promises, when written to prove a rich treasure for the Church

Rev A J Joslin writes from Harrisburg that the protracted meeting, commenced in that place on Saturday evening before the fourth Sunday in February was carried on in the spirit of the divine Master and to the edification of the church Bros James Pearl Joseph Pearl and P M Starr of the Methodist Church and Rev. Bros Snoddy and Bishop of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church all united in the labors of the meeting

A few weeks since, a terrible accident from the explosion of a can of kerosene occurred near Lansing, Michigan, by which Mr Leonidas Hamline Hines, his wife and their only child, were killed Mr Hines was the nephew of Rev G. and H K Hines of this conference, and was a young man of fine abilities and rare accomplishments, and his wife was a very beautiful and refined lady The affliction falls heavily on the whole family circle as aside from relationship, few young men in Michigan had a more promising future

EAST PORTLAND MATTERS

[From the Era

This morning a number of workmen commenced building the plank road from this place to Sandy river, along the base-line road

The freight trains during the past week brought down several car loads of cattle each day. It is asserted that they can be transported to market in this way much cheaper than to drive them

Dr J C Hawthorne has received from John S Pierson, of New York for the Asylum a large and valuable collection of books instrumental and vocal music, atlases, Illustrated London News (bound), stereoscopic views etc, for which he desires us to return his thanks

Quite a number of our citizens are engaged in building residences, business houses, etc, and several houses coming under this heading are pretty well advanced toward completion It is very evident that East Portland will improve in this way very materially during the coming summer

A plank road nine feet in width is to be the next important improvement in East Portland It will commence by running along Sixth street, crossing by a substantial bridge into Brooklyn thence at right angles south over the hill through what is known as the River Side Homestead Association property, and intersecting the county road at the north line of L Long's division land claim It is to be built entirely by the property-holders, who will contribute in proportion to the amount of their property, and will most probably be completed before the first of June! This shows a considerable spirit of enterprise, and should be followed up

A REMARKABLE CURE OF PALSY

WM BURDEN, A STOCK RAISER OF WILLOW CREEK, WASCO COUNTY, OREGON, LOST THE USE OF HIS LEFT ARM BY PALSY WAS CURED IN TEN MINUTES BY DR ABORN COR THIRD AND MORRISON STREETS, PORTLAND

To the Afflicted:—I wish to state that I lost the use of my left arm from my shoulder to the end of my fingers by a stroke of palsy I could not raise my hand or arm from my side and was fearful that there was no cure for me My friends at the Dalles advised me to visit Portland and place myself under the care of Dr Aborn I arrived in Portland last evening by the Dalles boat and immediately called at Dr Aborn's office and made my case known The Doctor commenced treatment at once and in ten minutes time to my great surprise and joy he performed a complete cure, so that I now have the use of my arm hand and fingers, and can raise my arm up over my head with as much ease as I can raise my right arm. This certainly is a very remarkable cure, and in my estimation speaks volumes to the skill of Dr Aborn I am stopping at the American Exchange Hotel, and will leave on the boat to-morrow for home I am a stock raiser and reside at Willow creek, Wasco county Oregon eighty miles south of the Dalles

Lassitude and Debility

The relaxation [illegible] mental effort so strong, as almost to amount to [illegible] and which we term lassitude proceeds from a variety of causes The principal of these [illegible] debility heat of the atmosphere [illegible] climatic changes [illegible] physical prostration [illegible] ness But whatever the cause it must be perfectly clear that if the [illegible] relaxed something is required to [illegible] That something is [illegible] Bitters, which is universally regarded as the most [illegible] physical forces in existence It has been so thoroughly and widely demonstrated as to be a matter of positive certainty and familiar knowledge that the Bitters will not only rehabilitate the physique when shattered and wasted by disease but will also if taken systematically actually compensate the constitution naturally feeble frame for its deficiency of strength and by infusing new life into a weak system, endow it with the health and vigor which Nature has denied it The Bitters also enable the body to resist the enervating influences of heat humidity and changes from a temperate to a hot climate [illegible] on these accounts especially to be recommended to travelers and residents in the territories and persons subjected to abrupt transitions in temperature

A Vigorous Age

[From the New York Times

It is reported on good authority that Seward is busily engaged in writing his autobiography and an account of his recent trip around the world Bryant is preparing for a trip [illegible] Mexico having finished his great labor of translating Homer Gideon Welles is proving, by frequent and trenchant articles to the magazines that age has neither withered his intellect nor dimmed the brightness of his memory of wrongs endured Jeremiah S Black while continuing his legal practice is still finding time to deal hard blows at his political adversaries in other magazine essays Caleb Cushing s hand is discernable in some of the most powerful of our late State papers and he is on the eve of departing for Geneva as counsel in the Alabama claims arbitration Charles Matthews to pass to another sphere has just delighted us with acting which for grace, ease and facility of expression is hardly to be equaled by the younger generation of actors at whose birth it may be said this veteran comedian attended A B Durand the oldest of our artists has just completed a picture which in size is one of his largest and in strength of execution one of his most important. Havemeyer has proved his capacity for effective work for the public as Chairman of the Committee of Seventy and has shown us that energy and ability to render great service for the public do not always depart with the coming of many years

The venerable Judge Lowell of Boston furnishes the bar with decisions which for clearness and compact statement and comprehensive grasp of the subjects which they deal, are the model of American judicial opinions Ralph Waldo Emerson, whose years count up so many as to make those of us who knew of him in his Dial days sadly turn to count our own gray hairs, has never produced more finished work than that he has lately given us—work rich with the ripeness of thought and experience and polished to diamond like brilliancy Bishop Potter avoids no Episcopal duties and even resented it as almost a reflection on his character when the division of the Diocese of New York was accomplished Vanderbilt directs his half dozen great railroads and pushes his vast financial enterprises with a clearness and soundness of judgment in every way wonderful and with a brow that tells no story of care, plays his little game of whist in the evening as if he were nothing but an easy well to-do old gentleman, outside the turmoil of business or adventure Captain John Ericsson, who presided at the birth of the locomotive, being a rival of Stephenson as far back as 1829, and whose pupils are now old men and distinguished engineers is still working with a vigor and clearness of intellect really unexampled even in his own marvelous career. He is now engaged upon the most abstruse study of his life, solar physics, and has already accomplished enough therein to make a reputation, even if he had done nothing else

New Road to Wealth

The Chicago Times is responsible for the following bit of humor

Mr Smith, of Ogle county, who is a philosopher as well as a statesman, tells the public that a "promissory note for a horse enriches a State as much as a horse" Mr Smith, has, further, discovered that "promissory notes are constantly and silently enriching the owners thereof, and are as good as much property as a section of land"

The advantages of Mr Smith s discovery will be obvious to people who have been wishing that somebody would find a way by which they can increase their wealth indefinitely, without any more laborious effort than is involved in the process of arithmetical multiplication Mr. Smith has discovered the long-desired method of getting rich without work It consists simply in multiplying wealth by issuing promissory notes, after the manner of the now nearly extinct race of wild cat and stump-tail bankers

Mr Smith and his friend Mr Cunningham (who certifies to the excellence of Mr Smith s discovery,) own, each of them, a horse In other respects they are as poor as Job Each of them by the use of his horse, is able to earn a living and no more But each of them [illegible] very much to be a rich man, and the [illegible] of two horses Mr Smith has just [illegible] his wonderful discovery that a promissory note is capital and that the easiest way to increase capital is to make promissory notes He goes to his friend Mr Cunningham and explains his discovery, which Mr Cunningham admires very much "Now," says Mr Smith, "give me your horse and I will give you my promissory note for its value. You will be as rich as you are now, and I, having two horses instead of one, will be twice as rich as I am now Between us, you see, we shall have added one-third to the amount of our capital" Thus Mr Cunningham and Mr Smith strikes a bargain and [illegible] Mr. Cunningham who wants to grow rich as fast Mr Smith, proposes a bargain "Give me your two horses," says Mr Cunningham, "and I will give you my promissory note for their value. You will be as rich as you are now, because you will have capital (promissory notes, you know, are [illegible]) of the value of two horses, while I will have two horses and note of the value of a third horse, therefore, I shall be three times as rich as I am now, and our united wealth will be the value of five horses instead of two as it was at the commencement of our rapid [illegible] in wealth, under the operation of your valuable discovery" And so Messrs S[illegible] and Cunningham keep on trading [illegible] and promissory notes with each other [illegible], from being as poor as Job, gets to be as rich as Croesus!

The only thing which tends to qualify one s [illegible] of Mr Smith's merits as a discoverer is the fact that his plan of [illegible] the [illegible] of a State is not quite original It is identical with that of the four and twenty [illegible] Yankees, who, being imprisoned [illegible] in an apartment with which there was no possible means of external communication, made, in the course of twelve hours, by two-and-six-pence apiece swapping jack knives

Ancient Cities.

Every day the evidence accumulates that our world is older than any but geologists have any idea of, and that it has been peopled by races of which neither history nor tradition give account of. How many cities, and even whole nations, have suffered the fate of Herculaneum and Pompeii can only be conjectured, or how many have suffered worse than Lisbon or Caracoas, to be in time lost sight of entirely, in pre-historic or pre [illegible] days! The south of France has recently furnished the last example of discovery of buried cities, of whose existence no previous information has ever been given A distinguished geologist has found in the Pyrenees, only a short distance below the soil the remains of pre-historic cities The discoveries are very numerous and will help in pushing the domain of history still further back into the past than it has ever gone before Previous to 1854, we had no idea of lacustrine habitations, but in that year the winter was particularly crisp and cold in Switzerland and the level of the water was lowered in all the lakes. The inhabitants of Meilen had profited by the low water to raise a little dyke on the borders of Lake Zurich Driving down some piles they encountered obstacles and found that piles and enormous thick oak [illegible] had already been driven down Between the pieces of wood they discovered stone and bone instruments clumsy pottery etc These utensils bore such a resemblance to those in use by the primitive people that it was at once concluded that the Meilen discoveries were of the greatest antiquity The first men of the country were supposed to have built their habitations above the water and if the hypotheses were just, the same vestiges of an other age would be found at the bottom of the principal lakes Confirmation was soon made of these conjectures The fishers remembered that on former occasions their nets had been caught upon piles driven in the lake bottoms and pottery has also been found, but had been ascribed to a late date At last every one went hunting in the waters and out of the depths of the Helvetian Lakes they drew up to the light of modern day a civilization heretofore unknown More than two hundred stations, as the discoverers called them, or relics of primitive villages, were found in Switzerland But they did not all belong to the same epoch some were classified as having been built in the stone age others in the bronze age and all others in the iron age The discoveries in the Pyrenees disclose habitations of the same general character as those under the Swiss lakes In all the western part of the Pyrenees [illegible] these habitations are very numerous and they belong to the stone age The Archæological Society of that district is making efforts at great expense to develop these discoveries into a species of history of the people who inhabited the houses

A D[illegible] B[illegible] W[illegible] —This story is true Old Mr Thompson the doctor said had but two hours to live We stood by his bedside and held his hand and as the shadows gathered over his pallid countenance, we leaned toward him and whispered to him

Thompson have you anything to say Any last words that you desire to utter? Any regrets to express before you leave the world

He turned his head slowly toward us and with a sigh said

I have but a single sorrow There is but one recollection that brings a pang to my heart as I die I depart with the reflection that I have neglected to improve but one great opportunity of my life

And what is it Thompson? Tell us frankly and perhaps we may be able to [illegible] so to amend it in such a fashion that your last moments may be soothed and comfortable

No no! Max he said That cannot be My only regret is —and here a look of unutterable disappointment came from his eyes —my only regret in departing is that I have never seen the Falls of Niagara

The best of it is that old Thompson recovered entirely a few weeks later and although he lived for fifteen years afterward he never went near the Falls once

A gentleman while walking in Atlantic avenue in Brooklyn was jostled by a stranger and after proceeding a few yards, found that his watch and chain was gone He overtook the thief and pointing his revolver said sternly "Give me that watch The stranger surrendered it without a word, and hurried away On reaching home, the gentleman was startled in the middle of his narrative of his desperate encounter with a highwayman, by an interruption from his wife 'Why, John! you left your watch on the bureau this morning and I have been wearing it all day

Happy Colorado! financially so well to do that the Legislature before adjourning passed a law providing that no tax be levied for 1872, and only one half mills per cent for 1873 Why should Colorado be anxious to come into the Union as a State?

The steamship Ajax is due to-night. She brings heavy cargo of delayed overland freight.

The bark Almatia is due She has a cargo of assorted merchandise less 200 tons railroad iron for the N P R R.

We note an easier money market with less call for term loans on the street Remittances from East of the mountains continue free with remittances from the upper Willamette steady In mercantile circles we note more ease which would be still easier if many interior merchants would meet their obligations with more promptness It would not only be a great accommodation to parties to whom they are indebted but it would also enable them—the interior merchants—to make purchases to better advantage

Business for the week under review has been fairly active under an improved call from East of the Cascades and points down the river as also from different cities and places in the Willamette valley During the week we note an advance in Nails of .5 cents per keg a decline in Refined Sugars of 2 cents per pound in Raw of 1 cent per pound, and in Syrup of 7½ cents per gallon. In consequence of these declines we note an improvement in the call from the trade and to-day we note sales of 350 kegs of Island within our quotations Coffee, Teas Tobacco etc are only being purchased for immediate want pending final result of Congressional action

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Produce Market.

BREAD—Quotable Soda [illegible]c Picnic, [illegible]c Butter 7c Jenny Lind, 11c, Gingersnaps 1[illegible]c Pilot ex [illegible] 5½c Medium, 5c Navy, 4c

WHEAT—The action of the North Pacific Transportation Company in not placing freight to San Francisco at old rates continues to give dissatisfaction and is of itself one of the chief causes of so low rates ruling The continued unfavorable weather prevents seeding Receipts from Walla Walla are again in order We have nothing new to remark No transactions have come under our observation Holders are now favorably disposed to sell, but owing to low market ruling in Liverpool (Liverpool quotations 11s 10d) together with higher freight to San Francisco prevents sales being effected We do not at this writing think a choice lot could be placed at over $1 75 ℔ cental sacked

FLOUR—The export demand is confined to Victoria and Puget Sound The local demand is steady with an improved call at quotations now ruling The mills are not running to full capacity and consequently [illegible] is being manufactured We note considerable going into warehouse pending arrival of sailing vessels to take it forward, and also for improvement in tone of the San Francisco market. The Oriflamme on her last trip took out about 2,760 bbls, and the bark Almatia cleared with 2,449 bbls Millers and agents marked prices down on the 11th 25c ℔ bbl We quote extra of standard brands at $6 ℔ bbl, choice country $5 50@5 75 outside brands and superfine $5@5 25

OATS—Market rules steady at quotations The supply in the country is claimed to be greatly in excess of seed requirements, and consequently many think that prices will recede but at this writing it is impossible to ascertain with certainty the amount in the country So far as we are advised no shipments are en route from San Francisco We quote California at 2@2¼c ℔ ℔ Oregon, 2¼@2½c to dealers, with an advance demanded for jobbing lots

BARLEY—The Ruval in the river, has on two lots, and the Almatia now due has on another lot all for brewers It is singular more attention is not paid to seeding Barley Prices nominal at 2@2¼c ℔ ℔ in jobbing lots

ONIONS—Prices have advanced in sympathy with advances in San Francisco. The Oriflamme took out 100 sks for San Francisco. We quote market at 2½@3 cents ℔ ℔

FEED—Freer receipts have caused prices to rule weaker without any change Bran, nominally at $26 ℔ ton; Middlings Shorts Chop etc $35@45

HAY—Reports from the interior confirm former reports that the supply is large which together with demand only for immediate wants cause prices to rule for bale Timothy at $22 50@24, other kinds $14@18

OATMEAL—Stock light Jobbing at 5½c ℔ ℔

BUTTER—Why cannot our dairymen and farmers make a prime article? is often asked but not satisfactorily answered Our market is entirely bare of choice which if in market would command 45c per pound We quote jobbing lots as prime first quality at 30c ℔ ℔ solid 18 to 25c; rolls 25@35c, with no prime to be had which if obtainable would command 40@45 cts ℔ ℔

PROVISIONS—Great complaint is made by dealers that some of the country cured is put on the market in a condition that causes it not to command full rates It should be remembered that quality and condition has much to do with prices Stock moves off slowly under a steady call If a lot was placed on the market and sales forced concessions of from 1@2c would have to be made We quote Bacon at 13½@16c ℔ ℔ for extra city cured, Hams 14@15c according to cut and quality—Johnson s commanding 18c Shoulders 9@10c—Lard in 12½c.

FRESH MEATS—Quote market firm for Beef at 9@10c per ℔ Pork on foot 4½@6c dressed 8@9c Sheep $4 @5 per head

HIDES—Dealers are offering higher prices quotable at 13½@19½c ℔ ℔ for dry 8@10 for salted

TALLOW—Quotable at 8@9c ℔ ℔

FRUITS FRESH—Apples in fair supply. Receipts are free with shipments to San Francisco in order We note Apples per box 50c@$1 as per quality and condition Pears in lighter supply Other kinds of fruit remain unchanged with supply fair

POULTRY—Market for Hens and Roosters $4 50@5 ℔ doz Turkeys $18@20, Geese $9 50@10 50 Ducks $6@8 ℔ doz

SEEDS—We quote market for Timothy 12½@16c ℔ ℔ Clover red 25@30c ℔ ℔ white 90c@$1 ℔ ℔; Orchard Grass 37@50c ℔ ℔; Blue Grass, 60@[illegible]c ℔ ℔

BEANS—We quote market in jobbing lots Bayo 4½c ℔ ℔ Butter 4[illegible]c ℔ ℔; Pea, 4½c ℔ ℔ Small White 4c ℔ ℔ Pinks 4c ℔ ℔

EGGS—Market well supplied with receipts liberal Prices firm at 22 cents ℔ dozen, at which price dealers are all coming forward

General Merchandise.
